

George Veenhuizen, MD, FRCPC

Dr. Veenhuizen completed his EP training at the University of Calgary and was the director of the complex ablation program at the Libin Cardiovascular Institute from 2006-2018. He is currently associate professor and the director of the training program in adult electrophysiology at the University of Calgary. His clinical & research interests are in catheter ablation.